Dear Patrons

It is with pleasure that we bring you another year of SteamFest, the show that takes you back in time to the days when steam, not petrol, fed, clothed and housed the world. It's hard to believe that the last days of the steam era are in living memory for some and yet now, most people, know little about the power and past dominance of the steam engine.

This event has been organised by the Redwater Creek Steam and Heritage Society volunteers and is one of the largest fully volunteer run events in the state. The core team, whose praises I cannot sing more highly, have organised this year's event and will start working on our 25th SteamFest for 2019 soon after the gates shut on Monday. I thank them for their commitment and dedication. We need all the help we can get as the event grows so if you are interested consider joining our group or offering some time to volunteer. Its not too late to assist us with this year's event. Go to the site office marked on the program if you can.

Each year our opening is performed by a well-known entity and someone deserved of the honour. In the past we have had the Premier, Governor of Tasmania, past deputy Prime Minister and well known philanthropist Dick Smith opening our event.

This year we are calling on John Treloar, owner of Treloar Transport our major sponsor since the society commenced in 1993 to do the honour. We hope you enjoy SteamFest 2018!

Chris Martin – President of the SteamFest Organising Committee
